an analysis of the trauma of the hidden children and his long term repercussion this book is made up of two distinct sections which are integrally connected the author s intent is not only to present and identify the trauma of jewish children hidden under the nazi occupation but also to analyse its short and long term repercussions to achieve this marcel frydman uses two complementary approaches the first section is an autobiographical study evoking the experience and conditions in which most jewish children and adolescents lived during the time of the occupation presented from the psychologist s point of view this approach is all the richer thanks to the author s professional career in psychology and a series of studies he carried out focusing on the lives of children deprived of a family environment the second section contains two retrospective clinical studies one of a sample of adults that had been hidden as children but who rediscovered their parents after the liberation the other of a group of orphans whose parents perished in the camps both groups demonstrate the indelible characteristics of the children's experiences during the time of the occupation after having focused on the unspeakable nature of the trauma and how this marks the adult personality the author attempts to explain the hidden children's long silence during which the suffering was internalized he has identified specific personality traits that brought to light particular vulnerabilities and the possibility and dangers of transmitting these traits to the next generation this work was remarkably and rapidly successful in Belgium because it clearly differs from earlier publications based only on the author's personal experience all copies of the first edition were sold out in less than eighteen months a second edition will be printed in Paris by the end of February 2002 some of our US colleagues such as Dr Thomas Jaeger and Dr J Khader from Omaha Nebraska have emphasized the indisputable importance that this book would have both in the US and in Israel if only there were an English version this is why we are requesting your financial aid for the translation expenses a sum of 5 000 US would allow us to attain this objective discover the story of the hidden children under the occupation in an essay by a renowned psychologist extract it was barely six in the morning on April 13 1943 when along with my cousin who was two years older than me I left the house where nine Jews had found refuge in order to escape the deportations since September 8 1942 we had been hiding at a tombstone engraver's Oscar Dumeunier just two steps from the Etterbeek cemetery located in Woluwé St Lambert on the outskirts of the Brussels urban area in this quiet region relatively far from the city centre we rarely encountered German soldiers the apartment at our disposal was located above an unused café we entered the upper floors from behind the building after having gone through the owner's workshop so as to avoid attracting anyone's attention the only issue that seemed problematic at least in the beginning was that of supplies in our case basic caution required that the adults avoid leaving the apartment to shop in the neighbourhood in fact they all had noticeable foreign accents which would have attracted attention thereby making their presence suspicious as a result one of the children took up this task and as a general rule it was my responsibility the day after the major raid at Brussels South Train Station a friend of the family rushed into our home at daybreak she was still frightened and emotionally shocked from the events she had undergone the previous night they hid wherever they could for as long as it took the allies to win the war Jewish children frightened alone often separated from their families for months even years they faced the constant danger of discovery fabricating new identities at a young age sacrificing their childhoods to save their lives these secret survivors have suppressed these painful memories for decades now in the hidden children twenty three adult survivors share their moving wartime experiences some for the first time there is Rosa who hid in an impoverished one room farmhouse with three others sleeping on a clay pallet behind a stove Renee who posed as a Catholic and was kept in a convent by nuns who knew her secret and Richard who lived in a closet with his family for thirteen months their personal stories of belief and determination give a voice at last to the forgotten inspiring and life affirming the hidden children is an unparalleled document of witness discovery and the miracle of human courage
